Assistant Program Director
Emergency Medicine Residency Program

The Harvard Affiliated Emergency Medicine Residency (HAEMR) Program at Mass General Brigham is seeking an innovative educator to join our leadership team as an Assistant Program Director based at Brigham and Women’s Hospital. The Emergency Department at Brigham and Women’s is a high acuity, level 1 trauma center, burn center and the primary site for the Dana Farber Cancer Institute. The ED is completing a renovation doubling the footprint to care for over 54,000 patients annually.

HAEMR is a four-year training program with 60 residents. Residents split their time primarily between Massachusetts General Hospital and Brigham and Women’s Hospital with other rotations at Boston Children’s Hospital and Newton-Wellesley Hospital (community site). The program has a long history of training future academicians with many graduates pursuing fellowship training after graduation.

The ideal candidate will have an MD and is Board Eligible or Board Certified in Emergency Medicine. In addition, the candidate will have completed a fellowship in medical education and have previous experience in medical education as either a clerkship director or assistant/associate program director. New fellowship graduates will also be considered. The candidate should have a demonstrated commitment to teaching, curriculum design and education scholarship.

The successful candidate will join a motivated residency leadership team which consists of the Program Director, four other APDs, a program manager and two program coordinators. Local leadership at Brigham and Women’s Hospital includes the Vice Chair of Education and Chair of Emergency Medicine. The position also offers opportunities for professional development, a competitive salary, and an outstanding comprehensive benefit package. The candidate would be considered for an academic rank of Instructor, Assistant Professor or Associate Professor at Harvard Medical School commensurate with experience, achievement, recognition, and teaching.

Our department and residency program value diversity, equity, and inclusion. We seek candidates who enhance our diversity and those who are committed to promoting an equitable and inclusive environment for our patients and trainees.

Interested candidates should send a letter and Curriculum Vitae to Michael VanRooyen, MD, MPH, Professor and Chair, Department of Emergency Medicine, Brigham and Women’s Hospital. Please apply by confidential email to mdeloge@bwh.harvard.edu.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions or any other characteristic protected by law.

We are actively committed to increasing the diversity of our faculty; people with disabilities, veterans, women and members of underrepresented minority groups are therefore strongly encouraged to apply.