Faculty Position in Allergy and Immunology

The Massachusetts General Hospital Department of Medicine is seeking a board-certified Allergist/Immunologist to join the Allergy and Clinical Immunology Unit.

The applicant will be expected to have a strong commitment to clinical activities and patient care. Areas of clinical interest can include drug allergy, food allergy, urticaria, asthma, eosinophilic esophagitis and/or immunodeficiency.

Appointment as an Instructor, Assistant or Associate Professor at Harvard Medical School will be commensurate with experience, training and achievements in addition to teaching activities.

Although several years of experience would be advantageous, less experienced candidates with exceptional promise will also be considered.

Interested candidates should send a personal statement, names of three referees, and a Curriculum Vitae to Dr. Aleena Banerji, Clinical Director of the Allergy and Clinical Immunology Unit at allergysearch@mgh.harvard.edu.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions or any other characteristic protected by law.