The Division of Adolescent/Young Adult Medicine at Boston Children’s Hospital is seeking a full-time Adolescent Medicine Faculty physician to join our Division by July 1, 2022. The position is focused on clinical care as well as teaching. The applicant should have expertise in the delivery of primary and subspecialty care to diverse youth in urban and suburban settings, including those with eating disorders, obesity, reproductive health issues, complex care management, young men’s health concerns, mental health difficulties and multiple psychological needs. The applicant should also have experience in teaching medical students, pediatric residents, and Adolescent Medicine Fellows and those on multidisciplinary teams. The job responsibilities include clinical care at the main hospital campus at Longwood and Boston Children’s Hospital satellites, such as Lexington, Norwood, Waltham, North Dartmouth, Peabody or Martha Eliot, for 1 day/week, teaching medical students, residents, and Fellows, and opportunities to lead or collaborate on QI and clinical research projects. The applicant must be eligible for a Massachusetts license and Board-Eligible or Board-Certified in Adolescent Medicine. The proposed rank for this position will be Instructor or Assistant Professor in Pediatrics, Harvard Medical School. Academic rank at Harvard Medical School is commensurate with accomplishments, scholarship, national recognition, etc.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions or any other characteristic protected by law. Please send cover letter of indicating interest in an academic career, experience to date, curriculum vitae, and names of three references to Adrianne Goncalves, Division Manager, Division of Adolescent/Young Adult Medicine, Boston Children's Hospital, 300 Longwood Ave, Boston MA 02115 or to adrianne.goncalves@childrens.harvard.edu.