Massachusetts General Hospital seeks a board-certified or board-eligible Female Pelvic Medicine & Reconstructive Gynecologist who will continue to advance the clinical and research mission of the division. Clinical practice will include both time at the main campus and at our affiliated network locations in MA, NH, or ME. Protected time for research is flexible and commensurate with the individual’s goals and experience. The ideal candidate has an exceptional record of experience in gender affirming surgery, independent clinical practice, a well-developed academic vision, and a track record of scholarly activities. The position includes an academic appointment at Harvard Medical School appropriate with experience as instructor or assistant professor. Responsibilities will include teaching of medical students, residents, and fellows. Our Division of Gyn Onc and Department of Ob/Gyn delivers world-class cancer care with a personal touch to a diverse patient population. Our team includes and supports collaboration with medical oncologists, radiation oncologists, gynecologic pathologists and cancer researchers. Our department research infrastructure includes the Deborah Kelly Center for Clinical Research and the Vincent Center for Reproductive Biology. In addition to being a site for Harvard medical students, the BWH/MBG Integrated Residency in Obstetrics in Gynecology provides training for 44 residents each year and the division has ACGME-accredited fellowship.

Our Division of FPMRS and Department of Ob/Gyn delivers world-class urogynecologic care with a personal touch to a diverse patient population. Our team includes and supports collaboration with colorectal surgeons, urologists, gastroenterologists, plastic surgeons, and physical therapists. Our department research infrastructure includes the Deborah Kelly Center for Clinical Research and the Vincent Center for Reproductive Biology. In addition to being a site for Harvard medical students, the BWH/MBG Integrated Residency in Obstetrics in Gynecology provides training for 44 residents each year and the FPMRS division has ACGME-accredited fellowship.

Massachusetts General Hospital is a 900-bed medical center, offering diagnostic and therapeutic care in virtually every specialty and subspecialty of medicine and surgery. Innovative programs including the Center for Diversity and Inclusion, the Mongan Institute, the Disparities Solution Center and the Stoekle Center are dedicated to building a diverse community of physicians and scientists, fostering a culture of inclusion and respect, and providing equitable, innovative care that improves the lives of the people of our community.

We seek individuals who will actively contribute to our core values of diversity, openness, innovation, and clinical and academic excellence. All providers who share those commitments, especially those from diverse backgrounds, are encouraged to apply. We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions or any other characteristic protected by law.

Competitive salary and opportunities for teaching, professional development and interdisciplinary collaboration are available. Interested candidates should submit a current CV to the address below. Personal statements summarizing clinical experience, research interests, and leadership roles are encouraged. Address inquiries and letters of interest to: May M. Wakamatsu, M.D. Female Pelvic Medicine & Reconstructive Surgery, c/o Ashley Cambridge acambridge@partners.org.