Faculty Position
Director of Cardiac Performance Program
Department of Medicine
Massachusetts General Hospital

The Cardiology Division of Massachusetts General Hospital is actively recruiting a Director of the Cardiac Performance Program (CPP). This is a three-year appointment, potentially renewable if both the Director and Chief of Cardiology agree. The candidate must be board certified in cardiovascular medicine and have experience in the cardiovascular care of athletes and active individuals (sports cardiology), and an understanding of exercise physiology.

The candidate will be directly responsible for the effectiveness of clinical services, overall quality control, general administration, and policy development of the CPP. Additionally, the candidate will be expected to support and participate in the development and pursuit of the academic and educational missions of the MGH and the MGH Corrigan Minehan Heart Center. An Academic Appointment at Harvard Medical School may be at the Instructor, Assistant Professor, or Associate Professor rank and will be commensurate with experience, training, and achievements in addition to teaching activities. Salary and benefits will be commensurate with the candidate’s experience and qualifications.

Although several years of experience would be advantageous, less experienced candidates with exceptional promise will also be considered.

Interested candidates should send a personal statement, three potential referees, and a Curriculum Vitae to MGHCardiologySearch@partners.org. Please include “cardiac performance program director” in the subject line.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions or any other characteristic protected by law.
