Academic Medical Dermatologist

The Department of Dermatology at Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center is seeking an academic medical dermatologist with interests in patient care and teaching.

Our department provides unique opportunities for medical dermatologists to practice and teach at the Medical Center in the Longwood Medical Area and in our department’s state of the art practices in Chestnut Hill and/or Needham. As a major Harvard Medical School teaching hospital, we provide training for Harvard Medical School students, fellows and residents. Ideal candidates must have excellent clinical skills and a passion for teaching, and working with residents. Interest in clinical research is strongly encouraged. The candidate must be board eligible or certified in Dermatology by the American Board of Dermatology. A commitment to the values of an academic environment is required.

Appointment as an Instructor, Assistant or Associate Professor at the Harvard Medical School will be commensurate with experience, training and achievements in addition to teaching activities. Suitable candidates will have an MD or an MD-PhD, and Board Certification in Dermatology.

The compensation package includes an excellent base salary, an incentive program, and generous fringe benefits. Employment and benefits are offered by Harvard Medical Faculty Physicians. Please respond with your Curriculum Vitae as well as the names and addresses of three references to the head of the Search Committee.

Rachel Reynolds, M.D. Interim Chair, Department of Dermatology
Department of Dermatology
330 Brookline Avenue
Gryzmish 522
Boston, Massachusetts 02215
Email: rreynold@bidmc.harvard.edu

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions or any other characteristic protected by law.