Massachusetts General Hospital

Surgical Pathologist with expertise in Gynecologic Pathology

BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS (USA). The Division of Anatomic & Molecular Pathology in the Pathology Service at the Massachusetts General Hospital, a founding hospital of Mass General Brigham, and a major teaching affiliate of Harvard Medical School, is seeking a Board-certified surgical pathologist, or equivalent, to join our division, organized into 15 subspecialty services. The department handles approximately 86,000 in-house and consultation cases annually.

We are seeking candidates with primary expertise in gynecologic pathology; but the position also includes a component of obstetric pathology signout. The department has a great tradition of excellence in gynecological pathology, including through the legacy of Dr. Robert E Scully and outstanding referral and hospital material. Candidates are expected to be committed to the education of residents and fellows and develop a successful academic track record. There are considerable opportunities for both clinical/translational and basic research within the department, hospital, and overall Harvard system. Academic rank as Associate Professor, Assistant Professor or Instructor and salary will be commensurate with experience and accomplishments.

Interested candidates should send a personal statement including research interests, three potential referees and Curriculum Vitae to:
