

MassGeneral Hospital for Children (MGHfC) at Massachusetts General Hospital (MGH) in Boston is seeking a Unit Chief for the Division of Global Health. This is a full time position which will include appointments at both MGH and Harvard Medical School. The candidate must have an MD degree and hold an Assistant or Associate Professorial position. He/she must have at least five years of experience in global health activities.

The Division of Global Health, comprised of faculty, senior research fellows and staff, builds and fosters international partnerships for service to reduce health disparities and achieve optimal health for children and adolescents in resource-limited settings in the developing world. The Division also engages in research into the best ways to achieve these ends. Education of residents and medical students locally and in international locations is also a priority.

Examples of Division activities include:

- Service delivery and capacity-building in basic health services and in critical newborn and maternal care in India, Liberia, South Sudan, Uganda and other locations
- Developing and testing innovative technology to improve quality of care
- Research in implementation science and finding ways to make evidence-based health care available to developing societies
- Residents and medical students have the opportunity to work in these areas in a variety of locations throughout the world.

The Unit Chief will oversee and participate in efforts in all of these areas. He/she must have clinical expertise, a proven research record and a strong interest in teaching. He/she must hold, or be eligible for, licensure in the State of Massachusetts and must have certification by the American Board of Pediatrics. Responsibilities also include participation in departmental committees and meetings, and similar activities on the hospital level, and availability to assume other responsibilities as designated by the Chief of Service.

Academic appointment at Harvard Medical School will be at the level of either Assistant Professor – full time, or Associate Professor – full time commensurate with experience, qualifications and achievements. A comprehensive compensation and benefits package is available.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law
