Mount Auburn Hospital, a Harvard Medical School teaching hospital serving the greater Cambridge, Massachusetts area is seeking a board certified rheumatologist to join the growing Division of Rheumatology. The ideal candidate would have a strong interest in all aspects of clinical rheumatology and medical education. Training and certification in musculoskeletal ultrasound is preferred but not required. Responsibilities will include providing outpatient and inpatient care at Mount Auburn Hospital, teaching of residents and medical students and participation in all activities of the Division of Rheumatology. Mount Auburn Hospital caters to a diverse mix of urban and suburban patients and is characterized by an exceptionally collaborative and collegial working environment. The rheumatologist selected for this role will receive a faculty appointment as an Instructor or Assistant Professor at Harvard Medical School commensurate with experience and qualifications. For questions, please call Melissa Porter at 617-499-5309. To apply please send a CV and a brief letter of interest to: maporter@mah.harvard.edu

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions or any other characteristic protected by law.