The Carole M. and Philip L. Lowe Center for Thoracic Oncology, Department of Medical Oncology at the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute and the Department of Surgery and Medicine at Brigham and Women’s Hospital are seeking a clinical oncologist/clinical investigator to serve as the lead medical oncologist in the International Mesothelioma Program with an interest in research and treatment of pleural and peritoneal mesothelioma. The focus of this position is on clinical care and clinical investigation of patients with mesothelioma as well as on the development and implementation of strategies to help clinical and research growth of the program. The successful candidate will work with clinicians and investigators from the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute and Brigham and Women’s Hospital to see and treat patients at both institutions. In addition, the physician-investigator will also engage in teaching students, housestaff, and fellows in the clinic and inpatient settings. The Lowe Center for Thoracic Oncology at the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute and Thoracic Surgery at the Brigham and Women’s Hospital integrates multidisciplinary treatment, outpatient care, clinical trials, and coordination of laboratory research on patients with mesothelioma and other thoracic malignancies.

The position will be based in both the Department of Medical Oncology at DFCI and the Department of Medicine at the Brigham and Women’s Hospital and includes close collaboration with Thoracic Surgery at the Brigham and Women’s Hospital and other institutions affiliated with the Dana-Farber/ Harvard Cancer Center and the Harvard Medical School.

The academic appointment will be at the Assistant/Associate Professor level at Harvard Medical School and determined by the applicant's credentials. Salary and benefits will be competitive with other institutions. Applicants should have an MD or MD/PhD degree and should be board certified or board eligible in Internal Medicine and Medical Oncology.

Interested candidates must submit a letter of interest and CV and names and email of three references to:
