The Department of Emergency Medicine at Brigham and Women’s HealthCare (BWHC) is seeking emergency medicine physicians for the department’s Division of Emergency Ultrasound.

Brigham and Women’s Hospital is a major teaching affiliate of Harvard Medical School, a level 1 trauma and burn center. The Department of Emergency Medicine faculty cares for 70,000 adult patients per year in a 46 bed ED which includes a 10 bed ED Observation Unit.

The Division of Emergency Ultrasound at Brigham and Women’s Hospital oversees point-of-care ultrasound education, credentialing and daily administrative operations at Brigham and Women’s Hospital and Brigham and Women’s Faulkner Hospital. Division faculty co-direct (with faculty from MGH and Children’s Hospital) the emergency ultrasound education program for the Harvard Affiliated Emergency Medicine Residency (HAEMR). The Division collectively published over 25 peer-reviewed articles in 2015-2016 in addition to numerous chapters, iBooks and web content. The Division is proud to offer an ultrasound fellowship with a combined Master’s Degree program (MS, MPH or MEd), a comprehensive quality assurance program, an ultrasound documentation and archival workflow, and multiple opportunities for local, national and international ultrasound education.

The appropriate candidate will be eligible for academic appointment at Harvard Medical School at the rank of Instructor or Assistant Professor or Associate Professor commensurate with experience, achievement, recognition, and participation in teaching and scholarly activities. The position offers unparalleled opportunities for professional development, a competitive salary, and an outstanding comprehensive benefit package. BWHC is intensely committed to the personal and professional development of our providers.

Successful candidates must have successfully completed a four year residency training program in Emergency Medicine, or a three year program followed by a fellowship or one year in practice, and must be board prepared or certified in Emergency Medicine.

Interested candidates should send a letter and Curriculum Vitae to Michael VanRooyen, MD, MPH, Professor and Chair, Department of Emergency Medicine, Brigham and Women’s Hospital. Please apply by confidential email to mdeloge@bwh.harvard.edu.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions or any other characteristic protected by law.