MassGeneral Hospital for Children, a full-service provider of pediatric medical and surgical services embedded within the broader Massachusetts General Hospital, seeks a pediatric surgeon to join the Pediatric Surgery Division of the Department of Surgery. Massachusetts General Hospital is a major Boston teaching hospital and affiliate of Harvard Medical School.

As a full-time Harvard Medical School faculty member, the physician should have special interest in furthering the clinical, research, and teaching goals of the institution with a focus on pediatric surgery and must qualify for a Harvard Medical School appointment at the Instructor or Assistant Professor level.

The pediatric surgeon must have a willingness to see patients in a community setting as well as in an academic medical center environment. The candidate must be board-certified or board-eligible in Pediatric Surgery. Specific interest in pediatric surgical outcomes research is highly desirable, as is clinical expertise in thoracic surgery and ECMO.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions or any other characteristic protected by law.

Interested candidates should submit a letter of application and curriculum vitae to:
