VA Boston Healthcare System seeks an innovative physician to lead a new Hospital in Home (HIH) program. The HIH program provides in-home care for medically stable patients with acute care needs.

The ideal candidate is a clinician with strong interests in hospital medicine, transitions of care, and home care who can lead an interdisciplinary team to enhance the effectiveness of this novel program. There will be opportunities to develop clinical research, quality improvement, and educational programs within the HIH program. The full-time position will also include some rotations on the inpatient general medicine and/or subacute care teaching services.

Candidates should have at least 3 years of clinical experience and be board eligible/certified in internal medicine. Academic accomplishments should be commensurate with academic appointment at the Instructor or Assistant Professor level at Boston University School of Medicine or Harvard Medical School. US citizenship, M.D. or D.O with full unrestricted licensure are required.

The VA Boston Healthcare System Medical Service serves as a tertiary care referral center for the veteran population throughout New England and is a major teaching affiliate of Boston University School of Medicine and Harvard Medical School.

The position offers a competitive VA salary, as well as a generous leave and benefits package. For information on federal benefits visit: www.opm.gov/healthcare-insurance

Interested candidates should submit a CV and letter of interest to Jay D. Orlander, MD, MPH, Associate Chief, Medical Service, VA Boston Healthcare at VABostonDirectorHIHP@va.gov.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.