The Brigham Health Department of Emergency Medicine is currently seeking a nocturnist emergency medicine physician for our two emergency departments, Brigham and Women’s Hospital (BWH) and Brigham and Women’s Faulkner Hospital (BWFH). BWH is a 760-bed academic hospital and a pillar teaching affiliate of Harvard Medical School. It is a level 1 trauma and burn referral center and offers the full spectrum of medical and surgical specialties. BWFH is a 150-bed community teaching hospital in Jamaica Plain.

The successful candidate will have completed a 4-year residency in emergency medicine or a 3-year residency followed by at least one year in clinical practice, be able to work within an integrated health system and easily transition between academic teaching and community practices.

The position will allow flexibility and/or predictability in scheduling and is based on differential compensation for nights.

This position is eligible for an academic appointment at Harvard Medical School at the rank of Instructor, Assistant or Associate Professor, commensurate with experience, achievement, recognition, and teaching. The position also offers opportunities for professional development, a competitive salary, and an outstanding comprehensive benefit package.

Interested candidates should send a letter and Curriculum Vitae to Michael VanRooyen, MD, MPH, Professor and Chair, Department of Emergency Medicine, Brigham and Women’s Hospital. Please apply by confidential email to mdeloge@bwh.harvard.edu.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions or any other characteristic protected by law.

We are actively committed to increasing the diversity of our faculty; people with disabilities, veterans, women and members of underrepresented minority groups are therefore strongly encouraged to apply.