

HARVARD MEDICAL SCHOOL
TEACHING HOSPITAL

Dana-Farber Cancer Institute

Faculty Position, Department of Oncologic Pathology

The Department of Oncologic Pathology at the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute and the Department of Pathology at Brigham and Women's Hospital, and Harvard Medical School invite applications for a full-time faculty appointment at the Assistant or Associate Professor level. This individual will develop an independent, laboratory research program focused on cancer pathobiology and housed in the Department of Oncologic Pathology at the Dana-Farber. Physician-scientists or Ph.D.-trained clinical lab directors may have clinical responsibilities within the relevant division within the Brigham and Women's Hospital Department of Pathology. These applicants will be considered irrespective of their area of research or clinical subspecialization. Non-clinicians should have a scope of research that associates them with a pathology department (e.g., innovators in tissue-based imaging or laboratory diagnostics). Candidates must have an M.D. and/or Ph.D. and a proven track record of outstanding laboratory investigation.

The successful candidate will work principally at the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute and will have ample time protected for research. Their academic appointment will be at Harvard Medical School at the Assistant or Associate Professor level. Applicants should be committed to research, scholarship, teaching, and patient care as appropriate. As a member of our faculty, you will be expected and encouraged to contribute to the Institute's educational mission by teaching in both informal and formal settings.

Salary, benefits, laboratory space, and start-up package will be competitive with other institutions. Dana-Farber Cancer Institute is an NCI-designated Comprehensive Cancer Center and is an equal opportunity employer. Interested candidates must submit a curriculum vitae, a research plan, and 3 letters of reference to:

Kathleen H. Burns, M.D., Ph.D.
Chair, Department of Oncologic Pathology
Dana-Farber Cancer Institute
Professor of Pathology, Harvard Medical School
450 Brookline Avenue. Boston, MA 02215

Please send submissions via email to:

PATH_SEARCH@DFCI.HARVARD.EDU

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions or any other characteristic protected by law.