

BRIGHAM AND
WOMEN'S HOSPITAL

HARVARD
MEDICAL SCHOOL

Instructor

Department of Anesthesiology, Perioperative and Pain Medicine
Brigham Health, Brigham and Women's Hospital

BRIGHAM HEALTH, BRIGHAM AND WOMEN'S HOSPITAL in Boston, Massachusetts is recruiting for an Instructor within the Department of Anesthesiology, Perioperative and Pain Medicine (DAPPM).

Successful candidates should have an outstanding track record in mechanical engineering with expertise in biomedical device design. It is expected that applicants have a PhD degree in Mechanical Engineering and at least 2 years of postdoctoral experience with a strong publication record. The candidate must be an excellent teacher and meet the metrics for a Harvard Medical School (HMS) academic appointment at the level of instructor.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions or any other characteristic protected by law.

The Department values diversity among its faculty, is committed to building a culturally diverse intellectual community, and strongly encourages applications from women and minorities.

Qualified individuals should submit a cover letter and three references addressed to James P. Rathmell, M.D and a curriculum vitae to Alice Rocchi at arocchi1@bwh.harvard.edu.