Internal Medicine Residency Program Department of Medicine Massachusetts General Hospital

The Massachusetts General Hospital Department of Medicine seeks an academic and clinical leader and licensed physician to serve as Program Director of the Massachusetts General Internal Medicine Residency Program working closely with faculty and leadership in the Department of Medicine at MGH. The successful candidate will have an outstanding record of medical education and academic accomplishments that would support appointment at the rank of Associate Professor or Assistant Professor of Medicine at HMS. A firm commitment to leading the daily operations and long-term planning of the Internal Medicine Residency Program is essential. Accomplished leadership skills, a commitment to multidisciplinary care models, to advancing equity, and to fostering clinical and scientific excellence are essential. Prior administrative, management, and curricular design and evaluation experience is highly encouraged.

The Internal Medicine Residency Program at MGH program includes a one-year preliminary training program, three-year categorical program and primary care program, and a physician-scientist pathway program. The program enrolls and mentors 215 trainees and is the academic home for 42 faculty members. The Department of Medicine has a long-standing commitment to outstanding clinical training and education. We are dedicated to the development of exceptional and passionate leaders in medicine. The Department is committed to advancing clinical, research, and educational collaborations across the Mass General Brigham health system and Harvard Medical School.

The candidate must meet the requirements for appointment at the rank of Associate Professor or Assistant Professor of Medicine at the Harvard Medical School with experience, training and academic achievements in addition to teaching activities. Suitable candidates will have an MD or an MD-PhD, and Board Certification in Internal Medicine. We are seeking candidates with a clear commitment to diversity and inclusion, mentorship, and trainee and faculty development.

Interested candidates should send a personal statement and Curriculum Vitae to:
