

Clinical Neuropsychologist

Home Base, A Red Sox Foundation and Massachusetts General Hospital Program
Boston, MA

Massachusetts General Hospital is seeking a scientist-practitioner with expertise in neuropsychology, cognitive rehabilitation, and mild traumatic brain injury. The Neuropsychologist will be responsible for neuropsychological evaluations, cognitive rehabilitation, and educational activities. This role will be embedded within the cognitive and brain health program, providing psychological services to patients seeking multidisciplinary evaluation and treatment for brain injury and associated problems. This is open to junior, mid-career, and senior clinicians. Home Base, a Red Sox Foundation and Massachusetts General Hospital program, is dedicated to healing the invisible wounds – including post-traumatic stress, traumatic brain injury, anxiety, depression, co-occurring substance use disorder, family relationship challenges and other issues associated with Military service – for Veterans of all eras, Service Members, Military Families and Families of the Fallen through world-class clinical care, wellness, education, and research.

Specialty training in neuropsychology and eligibility for board certification is required. Eligibility for licensure in Massachusetts, or holding a Massachusetts license, is required. One to two years of independent clinical practice experience is beneficial. Experience working with veterans and military families is beneficial, and additional interest and training in cognitive rehabilitation and/or cognitive behavioral therapy is valuable. It is anticipated that the successful candidate will be appointed as an instructor or assistant professor at Harvard Medical School. The teaching/supervision responsibilities would involve providing didactics and clinical supervision of trainees, interns, and fellows. Primary appointment will be in the Department of Psychiatry at Massachusetts General Hospital.

At Home Base, you are seen, heard, and treated with dignity and respect. We are committed to embodying values of anti-racism, diversity, equity, and inclusion. We recognize and work collaboratively to address disparities. We strive to foster an inclusive team environment in which each person has an experience of being valued and respected regardless of their intersecting identities.

Interested applicants should apply by emailing a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and list of 3 references addressed to Lauren Brenner, PhD, attention Monique Hashimoto, email: mshashimoto@mgh.harvard.edu. Home Base Program, 1 Constitution Wharf, Charlestown MA, 02129, www.homebase.org.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions or any other characteristic protected by law.

